Rivera ouster draws protests

The San Bernardino Valley College Board of Trustees, at a meeting on Tuesday, May 8, emerged from an executive session, and in a 6 to 1 vote, opted not to renew President Manuel Rivera's contract. The dissenting vote was made by Trustee Joe Baca.

Several weeks prior to board meeting, it was disclosed that President Rivera had applied and was interviewed for two presidencies in Minnesota and was a finalist for the chancellor at San Francisco Community College District.

In a crowded meeting room of 49 persons, and as a result of overcrowding Chairperson Allen Gresham asked approximately 30 persons to vacate the room due to fire regulations, requests were made from different persons in the audience to comment on the single item agenda. The requests were denied by Chairperson Gresham. The repeated requests to speak became louder and Gresham asked the board members if there were any motion for comment from the public. Baca made a motion, which was not seconded.

Trustee Chuck Beeman, prior to making the motion not to renew the contract for President Rivera, stated that four years ago he had made the motion to give President Rivera a four year contract because he liked what he saw in Rivera. However, he felt that due to events and circumstances which had occurred on campus and in the best interest of the college, he felt that this action is necessary and "it is the most difficult decision I've ever been involved with." The motion was seconded by Trustee Mary Jo Poindexter.

In the discussion phase, Trustee Baca read a prepared statement. He elaborated that President Rivera had provided the leadership and vision to provide the educational needs of the community when the college was in a financial crisis.

Dr. Manuel Rivera

He pointed out the major areas of improvement during Rivera's tenure: utilization of an assessment instrument; reading, a curriculum approved by the curriculum committee; mathematics

Tucson Mariachi Conference: An enjoyable experience

Tucson, Arizona was the host of the 8th Annual Mariachi Conference on April 18th to 21st. This is one of the biggest cultural events in the Southwest and attracts mariachi aficionados from every part of the country (there was one couple from Australia). Two other conventions were in town and every hotel room was booked.

Tucson is a beautiful city in the middle of the desert (and no smog), where many conventions are scheduled throughout the year. Downtown Tucson is modern and clean. There are many good restaurants, especially good Mexican restaurants, (and the majority are owned by local Hispanics). There are many places where tourists can visit, Old Tucson, museums, art galleries and the University of Arizona, to name a few. A must is the De Grazia Art Gallery on North Swan Road on the outskirts of Tucson.

The tour to the Mariachi Conference was arranged by Stella's World of Travel for approximately 150 persons from the Inland Empire who traveled by bus. A pre-planned itinerary included points of interest: visit to Nogales, tour of Tucson and De Grazia Art Gallery. Hotel accommodations, dinner reservations and convention tickets were part of the package. The Embassy Suite Hotel had good service, including hors d'oeuvre, breakfast and hospitality hour on the hotel.

The first evening, after a tour of Nogales, dinner reservations were made at the Mariachi Restaurant, a well-known restaurant, where the food was excellent and the mariachis entertained throughout a very enjoyable evening.

The following day the group toured the city of Tucson, visiting the points of interest and making stops at major points, including the De Grazia Art Gallery.

The first Mariachi Conference was hosted in April, 1983 and was so successful, it has continued to this day. The Conference is under the direction of the LFC, Inc., and funds raised in this event contributes to the operation of the La Frontera Center, a multi-service center under the direction of Dr. Floyd Martinez. The event has been so successful in the past that two events (with a full pre-paid capacity of 20,000 persons) was scheduled for this year!

Good mariachi bands and singers have originated in Tucson, Linda Ronstadt, Lalo Guerrero and Monica Trevino (of the Camperos), to name a few. The Changuitos Feos De Tucson have won many awards and have become very famous. Members are from All Saints Catholic Church and the original group was organized by Father Charles Rourke from the Catholic Youth Organization. Since then, the group has traveled throughout the United States and Mexico and are invited to perform at important national events, including

MALDEF opposes June reapportionment initiatives

Says Propositions Will Exclude Hispanics From Political Process

(Los Angeles, May 1, 1990) The Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund (MALDEF) is voicing strong opposition to Propositions 118 and 119, calling the two remap initiatives short-sighted, unfair and a giant step backward. MALDEF says the propositions would violate the Voting Rights Act of 1965 and adversely affect the ability of Hispanics and other minorities to influence the reapportionment process.

Speaking before the Joint Hearing of the Senate and Assembly Election and Reapportionment Committees in Sacramento on April 26, MALDEF staff attorney Denise Hulett told the Committee that both propositions constitute a change in statewide voting procedures that will require preclearance with the U.S. Department of Justice under Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act. Hulett testified that the State would have to prove that the changes are justified and do not have a discriminatory effect on the ability of minorities to participate in the political process.

Considering such factors as present or past discrimination and the extent to which minorities have been denied an equal opportunity to participate meaningfully in the political processes of the state, Hulett told committee members, "under the above regulations, both of the propositions in question are fatally flawed."

Hulett pointed out that Proposition 119, the Independent Citizens Redistricting Initiative, excludes minority participation in "the reapportionment process by placing the responsibility for plan selection in the hands of a commission completely unaccountable to California's minority communities." The commission would be appointed by retired appellate court judges, and Hulett noted that only 6 of the 70 retired judges are racial/ethnic minorities: 3 are African Americans, 2 are Asian and 1 is Hispanic.

According to MALDEF, Proposition 118 does not fare much better. Hulett said the Legislative Ethics Enforcement Initiative of 1990 "renders minority influence a virtual impossibility by requiring that any reapportionment plan be adopted by a 2/3 vote of the Legislature." Emphasizing her point to the committee, Hulett stressed, "Specifically, we can expect that the Justice Department will examine whether, in the past, the minority communities have been able to garner 2/3 of the legislative vote on issues of interest to those communities. All of us in this room," she said bluntly, "know that such has not been the case."

MALDEF officials say the initiatives seek to change the rules of the game when Hispanics and other minorities are prepared to capitalize on the political gains they have made through hard-fought court challenges against discriminatory elections systems.

State School Crime Report

According to the latest school crime report released by the State Department of Education, California schools are seeing a much-hoped-for-decrease in substance abuse, but on the downside, there appears to be an increase in assaults and possession of weapons.

E. Neal Roberts, Superintendent, San Bernardino City Unified School District, said today the District has made progress in reducing school crime, but that there are still some areas of serious concern. In general, the District's crime figures followed the same trend as the State figures showing decreases in substance abuse, theft, and burglary, but increases in assaults, possession of weapons and assault with deadly weapons.

The reporting period was from July 1, 1988 through June 30, 1989 and is based on an enrollment of 34,219. "We obviously are not satisfied with these figures," Dr. Roberts said, "there is no doubt we still have a tremendous job ahead of us. We are very concerned and we are channeling considerable resources into combating drugs and school crime. It is a high priority for the administration and the Board of Education. Our students and our teachers have a right to safe and secure schools."

"Although our percentages went up in some areas, the numbers of students involved in criminal activity are a very small percentage of the total student enrollment. For the most part, our students are good citizens and are seriously pursuing positive educational goals. But we realize even a relatively small number of gang and drug involved students cause problems way out of proportion to their numbers and are not to be tolerated."

The crime rate was also up in the city of San Bernardino, Dr. Roberts noted. "With crime increasing all around--more and more gang and drug activity--it follows that this would be reflected in our schools. Our schools are not islands unto themselves, but reflect the social problems of the larger community. Because of this, any effort to fight gangs and drugs must be a cooperative one with parents and community help." Dr. Roberts said the district has an excellent partnership with local law enforcement, as evidenced by the successful DARE program, the joint efforts to eradicate graffiti and the recently formed gang task force headed by Board of Education member Hardy Brown and City Councilman Jess Flores.

The District's policy on gang apparel and the Board of Education's study of closed campuses, were cited by Dr. Roberts as among the efforts the District is taking to secure its campuses. "peer counseling--students helping students to reject gangs and drugs--has been shown to have great potential in our intervention and prevention efforts. We will continue these efforts and will continue to explore other interventions as well. But I want to make it clear that we will not turn our campuses over to hooligans. We will have safe campuses." Joe Hume, Chief of the School District Police Force, said some measures that are being looked into are a reorganization of the school police and security forces to provide for enhanced deployment and response to calls for assistance, and perhaps having sworn officers placed on school campuses.

Encarnacion (Chona) Coyazo selected Inland Empire Hispanic News 1990 "Mother-of-the-Year"

Encarnacion (Chona) Mendez Coyazo of Redlands has been selected Mother of the Year for 1990 by the Inland Empire Hispanic News. Mrs. Coyazo epitomizes the older Hispanic woman and mother in which traditions and customs are still in practice. She turned 81 on May 9th, however, the family got together at the Sylvan Park on Sunday, May 6, to celebrate her birthday prematurely to insure that all the relatives would be able to attend.

Mrs. Coyazo was born in 1909 at El Paso, Texas and the family moved to the San Diego area when she was three months old. At nine years of age, her father was killed in an accident. Friends and compadres helped her mother move to Redlands in 1918.

At the tender age of 15, Chona Mendez married Samuel Coyazo in 1924. They moved to Lawton Street where ten children were born and raised.

Mr. and Mrs. Coyazo had a very happy marriage and enjoyed their children. They also enjoyed music and dancing.

Encarnacion (Chona) Coyazo

Needless to say, they had many friends and compadres and the Coyazos were continually invited to weddings and baptismal celebrations. They were members of the Sociedad Progesista and she belonged to the Sociedad Femenil.

The Coyazos were active members of their church, walking with their children to Sacred Heart Church across town and the Catholic Mission Church on Calhoun Street and the present Saint Mary's Church. Mr. Coyazo was part of the construction firm that built Saint Mary.

Since 1946, Mrs. Coyazo has been involved in the Posadas in Redlands and enjoys having a posada at their home. "This is the real meaning of Christmas to me," she said.

Sitting in her neat living room, she was very alert and enjoyed talking about her marriage and children. When asked about her children and if she had any problems raising them, she said, "I was the disciplinarian in our house and I didn't let my children get away with anything. They all became good parents and I am very happy about that."

In 1974, Mr. and Mrs. Coyazo celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, which was attended by the many relatives, compadres, (and there were many) and friends. Mr. Coyazo died soon after the anniversary.

Mrs. Coyazo lives across the street from where her children were born. She is visited by her children, grandchildren (55), great-grandchildren (71) and great-great-grandchildren (3 and one on the way) and enjoys the attention given her. Her daughter, Vera Aranda, said that her mother also has large amounts of cooked food because there are always some grandkids visiting their grandmother and they also use her house as a communication center!

Five Generations

Grandma Chona with daughter Rita, granddaughter Fran, great grandson Robert, Jr. and great great granddaughter Evette.

She walks to church four times a week and on Sundays, one of her grandchildren takes her to Mass and breakfast. She had a heart attack several years ago, but is very healthy now. "We watch her health very closely," said her daughter, Vera.

When asked what she thought about the present way of life, "I am still a disciplinarian and all my grandchilddren get it when they get out of hand. Too many young people expect to get help from the government. They should get an education, get a job and live a good Christian way of life, I have lived a good life, my husband, Sam, was a hard worker. We did everything together and we were very happy. I have no regrets. Life has been good to me, thank God."

Barter Exchange celebrates five years in business

Tony DeLaTorre III, founder and owner of the Barter Exchange celebrated five years in the business recently at Edwards Mansion in Redlands.

Founded in 1985 with only a handful of charter members, the Exchange has grown to over 220 members; the most recent members being A-Amazong Pest Control and Hitec Security Systems. Other business that are members of the Barter include: video shops, restaurants, dentists, printers, watch and jewelry repair, and motels.

DeLaTorre explains the bartering concept as, "businesses sell their goods or services at the same retail monetary value in barter credits for other members of the exchange. The selling business accumulates barter credits to buy goods and services from other members that they previously paid cash for."

Sales tax is paid at the time of the transaction. The accounting and credit aspects are handled by DeLaTorre and his staff.

The 5th anniversary banquet was celebrated on Sunday, April 29, at a brunch at Edwards Mansion, a long time member of the Barter Exchange, with over 100 members and their families.

In his opening remarks DeLaTorre praised his late father, Tony DeLaTorre, for his success. "My father was a hard working family man who knew the value of honesty and integrity. He taught me and my brothers and sisters you treat people the way you want them to treat you." He added, "I miss my father, but I know if he were here today he would be happy because the principles he taught me as a child are what makes the Barter the success it is today."

Dr. Ernest Garcia retiring from Cal State

Dr. Ernest Garcia

In July, 1990, Dr. Ernest Garcia, Dean, School of Education, California State University, San Bernardino, will be retiring after a long and distinguished career in the field of education.

"The retirement from a formal educational profession," he stated, "will allow more time for me to do part-time teaching and consulting work. In addition, I will be able to become more involved with community work like the YWCA, Sinfonia Mexicana, Canto Bello Chorale and Inland Empire Symphony Association, which have been of main interest to me."

The formal educational profession which Dr. Garcia refers to covers 38 years of teaching at elementary, secondary and college levels, curriculum and program development, school administration and educational consulting.

"I started my teaching career, with emergency teaching credentials, with the Barstow School District in 1952. My co-teachers at that time were two San Bernardino residents, Judy Valles-Smith and Ruth Valles-DeSadier. I acquired teacher and administrative credentials at the University of Redlands as a result of summer college work and my BA in Social Science and Psychology at the University of California, Riverside. I am very proud of the fact that I was the first Hispanic to graduate from UCR." In 1966, Dr. Garcia earned his Doctorate from UCLA in Instructional Technology with minors in Pupil Personnel and School Administration and Supervision.

After two years of teaching, Dr. Garcia was appointed as a double session (the youngest) principal at Henderson School in Barstow. In 1956, he was appointed laboratory demonstration teacher for the, then, Mission School District. During the summers, Dr. Garcia taught at the University of Redlands.

He was appointed in 1958 as the Coordinator of Modern Foreign Language Instruction and Programs for the Gifted in the Rialto School District under Dr. John Milor. During his tenure, Dr. Garcia was recognized for the development of language programs and the leading Spanish Language Instructor. From 1961 to 1967, he was principal at Dunn School in Rialto.

However, in 1962-63, he took leave to become a consultant in education research and development for the System Development Corporation, which included research in computer-assisted instruction, instructional technology and administrative models.

He was Associate Professor of Education at the University of Redlands from 1967 to 1968, being advisor in the Graduate Program.

Since 1968 to the present, Dr. Garcia has been associated with Cal State, San Bernardino in various educational and administrative positions. He has held the positions of Associate Professor of Education, Coordinator of Elementary Education, Director-Bilingual Teacher Corps, Chair-Department of Teacher Education and since 1979, Dean, School of Education. Dr. Garcia has the distinction of being one of three Hispanics in California to hold that position, the others being Dolores Escobar, San Jose State and Rudy Serrano from Bakersfield State, (who was also raised in Colton).

When asked who were the persons in his life that helped in his career, Dr. Garcia leaned back in his chair, with a reflective look and smile on his face.

"I was raised in the barrio of South Colton and I knew early in my youth that I would be going to college. My parents continually encouraged me to do well in my studies. However, one of the greatest influences in my life, in terms of motivating me to get an education, was my sister Hilda. She left home to go to UCLA, which was very unusual at that time for a woman to do. When she would come home to visit from school, we would have lengthy discussions about education, the necessity and advantages of going to college, and she would encourage me to go into higher education. I am very grateful to my sister and I owe her a lot. Mr Ray Abril, Sr. also had a direct impact on my life," he said.

"I also had good teachers that would talk and encourage me to further my education. At Wilson, I had teachers like Mrs. Calla French, Ms. Morris and Mrs. Snider (who was feared by every student). In high school, track coach Don Green was very influential. Throughout my school years, I was involved with sports, band, various school clubs, in addition to keeping up with my studies. But sometimes the girls would compete with my activities," he said with a smile.

According to Dr. Garcia, times were very hard for every family living in South Colton. As an example, he stated that of the 72 students graduating from the eighth grade, only 18 students continued into high school. This was the era when every family member had to work in order to make a living.

During this period in his life, he also worked while going to school. He said that his friend, Ray Gonzalez and he were very entrepreneurial, working in various jobs in the Colton area, picking the harvests (which included picking oranges, and he became a cienero) in citrus picking in Hemet and excelled in picking apricots and potatoes in Nuevo.

As was the tradition, he gave his Mother half of the earnings and he deposited his share in savings for his education. (His Mother saved all the earnings he had given her and returned them to him when he was going to college).

After graduating from high school, and although he had some college preparatory courses, the courses were insufficient to enter UCLA. He enrolled at San Bernardino Valley College on a Rotary scholarship and using his savings, taking college preparatory courses. He continued to become involved in school activities. One activity which he organized was taking a group of Hispanic college students, which included (Ernest Lopez (who became a judge in Riverside), Fred Lopez (an attorney), Odie Martinez (school administrator and former mayor of Redlands), Leo Lopez (current State Director of Bilingual Education), Gil Garcia (comptroller for Kaiser), Harry Lopez (doctor) and Hiram Diaz (San Bernardino resident and community activist) to various segregated schools, including Alessandro (then a junior high in San Bernardino) and Wilson School, talking to the students about higher education and encouraging them to continue into college!

"I enjoyed going to Valley College because I was really getting an education. I also had good mentors like Gordan Adkins and Dr. Roger Anton (who is a legend at Valley College)," he said.

Graduating from Valley College, he enlisted in the service for two years, returning to civilian life in 1952 where he started teaching in the Barstow School District.

Dr. Garcia has had five major publications, four documents and has appeared in a film series; he has been appointed to 31 advisory groups, panels and boards throughout the United States; has had 21 selected papers and presentations; and has been on 13 major consultantships.

He has served on nine community organization boards and is currently serving on eight community organization boards.

In Retrospect By: Dr. Ernest Garcia

I have thoroughly enjoyed my career in education. Although, from time to time I reflect on opportunities that I had to go into agency work with the state or national government, to remain with a think tank like System Development Corporation, or to go off to Venezuela where I had the opportunity to head the American schools. But in the end what I have done has been enjoyable, challenging, and perhaps even productive.

When I'm asked what advice I would give to youngsters considering college, my response is simple and specific. Learn to read, read to learn, and write, write, write. Those skills are critical to success in school. Obviously, there are other factors that are important, but the literate person who can understand and analyze text and can express orally and in writing the ideas derived from reading is well on the way to success in school. Early in my college career I read a book entitled Number, The Language of Science by Tobias Danzig. The fact that I was able to read this book and understand its message changed my attitude toward math and its applications. Mrs. Snider (my math teacher) would have been proud!

Mother's Day is special because it is the day we should love our mother's more than we ever loved them before. We should care more about our mother's. Mothers should be able to rest that day. I think they shouldn't do anything. Mother's Day should be the time for all of us kids to love for our mothers. Mother's Day should be the time for all us kids to share our feelings with our mother. We children should give our mothers all the attention we have. We should show them how much we love them. Mother's Day is a beautiful day of spring. It should be like the jungle, full of beautiful flowers and new growing things. Mother's Day is like a breath of fresh air, in an open area with the perfume of flowers in the spring. Mother's Day is a day for mothers to enjoy themselves. It think mothers will be so happy because of what their children do for them. If this is what they want, they will be so happy that they will make them cry. They will want to give their children a big bear hug, and so big that it will squeeze the air right out of them. Mother's Day should be a joyous day for the mother because she can rest while the kids do all the work. Mother's Day is also like the sound of the ocean, waves and like the singing of birds in the spring. On Mother's Day, our mothers will experience all the beautiful things I've written about. I think our mothers will enjoy this day too.

Mother's Day

By Teresa Moreno

Mother's Day is a very special day for all of our mothers. We should give them all of our love and respect. We should show our mothers how generous and respectful we can be. Mothers have given us love now on this day it's our turn to give them our love. Mothers should be getting love right now. We should give our mothers a gift or a card. I think Mother's Day is also a very special day for their children. Mothers should be respected on Mother's Day and every day of the year. They shouldn't have to do anything. We should be the ones who should do everything. Why? Because it is Mother's Day and they should have a day to rest to. We should take care of our mothers and make sure nothing happens to them. Mother's Day is a day when the wind has a small breeze and the birds sing happily. Mothers are like the flowers blooming? I think mothers are very special to all of us because they take care of us. Mothers are always there when we need them. Mothers are needed by their children. The children should be helpful and help their mothers.

Mothers should know that we love them very much and that we care for them too. Mother will know what we feel once they read these words I've written for them. Mothers are very special to all of us. And children should be proud of their mothers. It's wonderful to have a mother that stands by our side. On Mother's Day we can show our mothers how much we really love and care for them. I think mothers will not only be happy but very proud of their children for what they have done. Mothers are very special to all of us. Mother's Day is for all of our mothers.

requirement for graduation; honor program to be implemented in 1990; re-entry program for women; increased enrollment of Hispanic, African-American and Asian students; improvement of the counseling services.

He further stated that Rivera was willing to make changes that were needed to improve the quality of education and hold personnel accountable. He questioned the evaluation process in which both presidents were evaluated with different forms, which would result in a negative response for Rivera and in essence, created a double standard of evaluation. He recommended that President Rivera's contract be renewed.

As a result of the vote, President Rivera's supporters became angry and began shouting, accusing the trustees of "conducting an illegal public hearing," and other accusations, including "lack of respect for the citizens wishing to make public comment on an agenda item." Other persons challenged the Board, and specifically Chairperson Gresham, in the conduct of a public meeting.

Dr. Armando Navarro, Director of Impacto 2000 and community activist, on Thursday, May 10, 1990, issued the following statement: "The meeting in which Dr. Rivera was denied a contract is symptomatic of problems that are surfacing throughout the country that are affecting Latinos, and we are entering the 90's with a very precarious future. The action of the Board of Trustees should be interpreted as a slap not only to Dr. Rivera, but to the Latino community. There is callousness, insensitivity and a kangaroo court mentality, and a lack of respect toward us as Latinos.

"Analyzing the (board) meeting, it is reminiscent of the attitudes and complacency of the old South in the 50's, the difference being that instead of African-Americans voicing their concerns, in this instance, they are Latinos. The ugly face of bigotry and prejudice toward Latinos is very much alive by the behavior of the Board of Trustees in not giving us the opportunity to speak in defense of Dr. Rivera.

"The winds of democratic change are blowing in other parts of the world and are in direct contrast to the winds of conflict in San Bernardino. The Board chooses to uphold these winds by not allowing participation in the democratic process. This spirit (of democracy) is over shadowed by authoritarianism which is reminiscent of a dictatorship. "This action and behavior by the Board will be the mobilization of the Latino community toward insuring that this incident of disrespect will not be taken lightly.

San Bernardino is fast becoming the Montgomery, Alabama of the movement of Latinos throughout this area."

the Nixon Inauguration and the signing of the Chamizal Treaty in Mexico.

Many members of the internationally-known Mariachi Cobre came from this youth mariachi group.

The concert on Friday was a festival. The Tucson Convention Center was filled to capacity. This event was special, in that, Univision was taping the show in order to show it in Latin America, Spain and Italy. There were many abrazos and handshakes among the attendees, indicating that this was like a family clan social.

Master of Ceremonies Jose Ronstadt gave a heart-warming bilingual welcome to the audience.

The Mariachi Changuitos Feos De Tucson performed very well and was given a warm reception, followed by the Mariachi Cobre, a young professional group, who were very exceptional. The Mariachi Los Camperos de Nati Cano, as usual, did not disappoint the audience, especially the songs of Monica Trevino. Beatriz Adriana sang a variety of songs which were well received by the audience. The world-famous Mariachi Vargas de Tecalitlan was received with a standing ovation and they gave an excellent performance.

The three mariachi groups combined to play the famous "Huapango" by Pablo Moncayo, and the groups were given a standing ovation. Linda Ronstadt sang a number of songs from her various albums and being a home-town girl, many standing ovations were given to her. Jose Luis Rodriguez, "El Puma", famous Latin America star, was very well received before he even started to sing, especially from the women in the audience. He sang each romantic ballad very well, which was confirmed by the audience's applause (and again, by the women's response). He sang two encore songs and ended the concert.

The following day (Saturday), a Mariachi Mass was celebrated at Saint Augustine's Cathedral with the diocesan Bishop as celebrant.

The following night, the group dined at the famous La Fuente Restaurant, (this is a must when visiting Tucson), where the atmosphere is very Mexican, tastefully decorated and very colorful. The restaurant was full to capacity and diners' expounded an attitude of celebrating another successful Conference. It seems that every important person in Tucson was present, including members of the performing mariachi bands and "El Puma". The service was very efficient and the food was excellent.

On Sunday, a very happy and satisfied group of tourists returned to the Inland Empire.
